Maine Fiddler to Make 'Em Step Tomorrow Night at Old-Time Dance

Detroit, Dec. 10.—An old "Down East" fiddler, accustomed to playing at New England kitchen dances and in village halls, drawing his bow across a Stradivarius worth thousands of dollars, while the richest man in the world listened—that was the picture when "Mellie" Dunham, champion fiddler of the State of Maine, played for Henry Ford.

"He plays well," said Ford today. "He played a waltz that was as good as any I ever heard—that is, to my liking."

The ancient fiddler and his wife, "Gram," lunched yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Ford at their Dearborn home. Professor Benjamin B. Lovett, Ford's instructor in old style dancing, and Mrs. Lovett were also there. After lunch came the fiddling. Ford told about it today.

Ford picked a fiddler and was amazed to catch a vision of the old man tackling the almost priceless instrument under his chin and drawing frisks in the strains of that homey folk tune, "Turkey in the Straw."

It was a melody of that famous rural classic, together with "Money Waltz" and "The Campbell's Old Clog." That Mellie played on the straw fiddle was the same combination that won for him the title of champion fiddler of his State in a contest at Lewiston.

What he touched Ford's fancy was played on Mellie's own violin.

What was it? The auto manufacturer was asked.

"One of his own concoctions," Ford answered, "Ripping Waves" is the name of it.

"We are going over his music," Ford continued. "He's just an old fiddler."

There was no disparagement in the last remark.

THE FIDDLER FOR SEEN.

"Old fiddlers" are the very persons Ford is seeking in his endeavor to collect and standardize the best there is in the tunes to which past generations stepped, the polka, schottische, mazurka and lancers.

"He also played a varietal one that was very good," Ford continued. "He played it differently from the way around here. He played the 'Round Dance' first. In this part of the country they play the 'Round Dance' first."

Ford returned to his office after a while, but the other remained to hear more of Mellie's fiddling.

"He told me it was as good as anything anybody had played," Ford said. "By 'anybody' he meant any of the thirty or forty other country fiddlers who have come to Dearborn at his invitation during the last eight months."

Mellie is going to spend the greater part of today with Professor Lovett, going over his tunes so that the dancing instructor can play such bars and movements as he wishes for the Ford collection.

FRIDAY NIGHT DANCE

Tomorrow night the Maine dance will play at the old-fashioned dance Ford will give in Dearborn.

Mellie and Gram were taken on a tour through the Ford plants at Dearborn and River Rouge yesterday. At one place Gram encountered a lot of sulphur fumes which caused her to cough and "spit" a bit, but she soon recovered.

Ford stated he did not know just when the Dunhams would return to their home in Norway, Me.

A story emanating from the East which accompanied them on their journey here stated that Mellie and Gram, never having been out of their own State before in all the three score years of their lives, were like "innocents abroad" on the trip.

"It seems to have his feet pretty well on the ground now," Ford replied.

50,000 TONS OF BRITISH COAL ON WAY TO HUB

Boston will shortly receive more than 50,000 tons of Scotch and Welsh coal now in ships on the Atlantic. Other cargoes are being loaded abroad. The past few weeks have seen more than 100,000 tons of hard coal arrive at North Atlantic ports from Great Britain and Germany in addition to about 100,000 tons of steam.

Headed for Boston are the steamers French Head, from Glasgow; Glenasmole from Grangemouth; Kilmara, from Swansea; Wyndham and Christian Borg from Swansea; Gorda from Cardiff; P. L. M. No. 3 from a Welsh port; and from Port Talbot, and Waterways from Cardiff. British firms are continuing to offer anthracite, claiming to be able to supply all demand.

2D PHYSICIAN IN DEATH PROBE

of the Second Hampshire District, had retained a conference with Attorney Palmer and Attorney General Boston at the State House in Boston.

Questioning of the second physician drawn in to the death probe was planned for today. This doctor, whose name is being kept secret, is reported to have treated Jesse before he went to Dr. Sparks' private office.

QUEST IS AWAITED.

At first it was reported that a 10-block doctor had figured in the case. He has been eliminated, but officials today interviewed a practitioner living nearer the town. This doctor is said to have been mentioned by Dr. Sparks. The authorities are of the opinion that Dr. Sparks was the only physician concerned.

Further action appeared today to depend upon the outcome of an inquest to be held at an early date. Among the witnesses to be called are Dr. Thomas P. Corbett and Dr. Justus G. Hanson, both of Northampton. Dr. Corbett assisted at the autopsy performed on Miss Lyman's body by Medical Examiner Brown. Dr. Hanson is reported to have responded to Dr. Sparks' emergency summons and to have refused to remain unless a third doctor was called.

The next move is up to the district attorney, who is a veteran of the Yankee Division. The death of Miss Lyman revealed a clandestine romance with a married man five years her junior and father of two young children.

It also turned the spotlight on the turbulent domestic affairs of Dr. Sparks, a native of Mendon, Conn., and graduate of the Baltimore Medical College.

The "man in the case" is twenty-six years of age. Miss Lyman was thirty-one.

They met when both were employed by a local firm. She was clerk and he was foreman. Then the young man married. Miss Lyman went to New York for a time. Later she returned and got a position in the office of City Clerk James R. Mansfield. She was employed in that capacity for two years, 1922-23.

Then the young man's wife is reported to have discovered a letter written by her complaining of her condition. City Clerk Mansfield was old about the letter. He asked Miss Lyman about it. She admitted that she wrote it and she was requested to return it.

The relations between the two are said to have continued up to her death, despite disclosures made by the wife and relatives of the young man.

Dr. Sparks divorced his first wife, Irene Monroe Sparks, Judge Ray, Superior Court on June 10, 1910.

The court records in Northampton show that Sparks was granted the divorce because of his wife's "gross and confirmed drunkenness caused by her voluntary and excessive use of opium, morphine and other drugs."

Dr. Sparks' second wife left him several months ago. It is reported to have annoyed her where she is employed as attendant in an invalid woman on Round Hill Road. He told Chief Cook of East Hampton where the Sparks' private hospital is located that he had shot his wife three times. When the chief and a patrolman went to the house Mrs. Sparks answered the bell. She denied that her husband had exhibited any revolver, but that he did create sufficient disturbance to cause her to plan to leave hastily by a rear entrance if he entered the front door.

Posts Guards to Enforce School Lipstick Ban

New York, Dec. 10.—(A.P.)—In the dressing room of the new Utrecht High School in Brooklyn today to enforce the edict of this principal, Dr. Harry Potter, that lipstick and powder must not be used by the students.

Lipsticks were taken from girls who attempted to use them. Students reported that one pupil was compelled to stand before her fellow pupils and wipe from her lips the forbidden tint.

471 DEER KILLED IN MASSACHUSETTS

Since the opening of the deer season on Sunday, but twenty-two animals have been taken in the Myotis Standish Forest, Commissioner of Conservation William A. L. Baskley reported today. The number of deer slain for the entire State, the commissioner said, amounts to 471.

Among those who left their apartments were Edward Sullivan and his wife, Elizabeth, who live on the second floor and Henry Taylor, who occupies an apartment on the third floor. The building is owned by Almer J. Smith.

The cause of the fire is undetermined and the loss is estimated at $1,000.

FIRE ROUTS 25 IN BRIGHTON

Twenty-five persons were forced into the hallways of the three-story apartment building at No. 115 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton today, by a fire that broke out between the walls on the second floor. When firemen arrived on the alert, they fought the house and warned everyone to go to the lower hallways.

In a few moments the fire had eaten its way up to the third floor. After chipping away sections of the wall, the firemen were able to get a stream on the blaze and it was soon extinguished.

Among those who left their apartments were Edward Sullivan and his wife, Elizabeth, who live on the second floor and Henry Taylor, who occupies an apartment on the third floor. The building is owned by Almer J. Smith.

The cause of the fire is undetermined and the loss is estimated at $1,000.

"It seems to have his feet pretty well on the ground now," Ford replied.

"Mellie" Dunham and his good wife, Emma, may get to like Henry Ford and his Dearborn estate, even as Henry likes "Mellie's" fiddle music, but both agree there's no place in the world like Norway, Maine.

'RED' INJURED: TAKEN OUT OF GAME

more playing for a few days. "Red" was a weary looking fellow when he plodded out onto the snow-covered field. Not only has he been battered and bruised by opponents, but he has also been hit by the cold. He has suffered severely the loss of his crown which has been hit by the cold.

He is paying the penalty of his injuries. The crowd accepts no excuse for his failure to struggle through to victory. He must appear in every game, no matter how he feels, because his appearance is what the crowd pays to see. He is expected to play in Detroit Saturday, and if he is able to walk, he will surely be at least put in an appearance on the field.

When Grange was taken from the game the crowd about Pittsburgh All Stars 7, Pittsburgh Bears 0, the crowd in Pittsburgh, Grange was taken from the game. Grange was taken from the game. Grange was taken from the game.

MENTALLY SICK. He has little time to himself, and practically no rest. As a football player, he must always be ready when summoned by the crowd. The same crowd that will cheer for him as they see cheer if he does not prove himself a superior on the field. Red is very much in the line.

Grange is actually in the depths of mental depression because of the sudden change from the condition of the college game.

Gen. Patrick Says France and England Lead U. S.

Washington, Dec. 10.—France and Great Britain lead the United States in military aviation, Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, testified today at the court martial of Col. William Mitchell. "This opinion is based on the number of planes available for war," said Patrick.

General Patrick accused the War Department of withholding assistance in the proper development of aviation.

"We have not received as much assistance as the department could have given," said Patrick, under cross examination by Representative Frank R. Reid, (D., Illinois, defense counsel).

HOUSEWIVES IN RUSH FOR GOLD-LINED CHICKS

Quebec, Dec. 10 (U.N.S.)—Housewives today stormed provision stores and market stalls for Mrs. Laurent Poulin's gold-lined chickens from her farm at St. Francois, Quebec county. Mrs. Poulin was preparing a young chicken for her own table when from its crop, dropped a gold nugget, nearly as large as a bean.

The farmer's wife told her neighbors of the find and the news spread to this city, where the chickens from the Poulin farm are marketed. Residents of Quebec county said today the chicken had been on the shore of Gilbert River, where, years ago, gold was found by prospectors.

WAY IS CLEARED FOR EARLY VOTE ON TAX CUT

General Debate on Measure in House Today; Up in Senate Next Month

Washington, Dec. 10 (A.P.)—Senators today had plans to draw the road for early consideration of the tax reduction bill as indications in the House that it would be disposed of there by the end of next week.

General debate on the measure was again the order of business in the House today. Despite some attacks on the provisions from the Democratic side, the bill by virtue of its non-partisan character, now appears to have a certain degree of support without material amendment.

The House Committee on Finance has announced that it will call the committee together January 4 to take up the bill with the hope of getting it before the Senate by January 15 and enacted into law by March 1.

The bill, as a whole, has been endorsed in the House by leaders of both parties, all of whom, however, have taken exception to some of the provisions.

Congressman Fairchild would send you to jail for five years for making any "criticism" of that respectable song, with its words expressing our hatred of the British and its tune borrowed from a drinking song.

Let us be your gift counsellors
YOUR CHRISTMAS list probably has many involved problems. Don't try to work them out alone. Bring us your list and let us help you find the answers.
The reason we believe that we can do this quickly and easily is that many other people have come to us in other years for gift counsel. We have shown these troubled shoppers things that would please the people they wished to make happy, and they have had the satisfaction of being sure that their gifts were unusual, interesting, and suitable.
Come in now. Start on our fourth floor, where you will find the Christmas cards, desk fittings, and the stationery. The third floor is filled with antique furniture, silver, glass and china. The second floor shines with the soft screen of silver.
The alcove on the street floor is filled with clocks, glass and china. Gold jewelry, watches, pocket leathers, beaded bags and novelties are in the center of the street floor. Diamonds, pearls and precious stones are in front of our Tremont Street entrance. In each department the salesmen will be glad to tell you of the merchandise in the other parts of the store.

Ascertaining that the proposed construction of a public garage at the corner of Howland and Warren streets, Roxbury, would mar the residential character of the neighborhood and be a menace to public safety, several hundred taxpayers, citizens living in that vicinity, will seek an injunction restraining such construction in the event that the City of Boston should expect with a view of a two square permit to be already been granted.

According to Robert H. Connelley, 15 Tremont street, "Pape's Cold Compound" would be distributed and sold in the neighborhood, and it is feared that it would disappear if the drug were sold. "Pape's Cold Compound" is a new remedy for colds, coughs, and croup. It is a powerful expectorant and is said to be the most effective remedy for these ailments. JIM AND JACK READY FOR GIVE AND TAKE GO

Both Eager to Get Into Ring and Let Their Dukes Fly

By RINGSIDE

ONE more day to go and the local heavyweight question will be settled when Jim Maloney and Jack Sharkey clash for the Santa Claus Fund of the Boston Evening American.

In this pair fight fans have the greatest card that could possibly be had. The Santa Claus Fund is fortunate in being able to present them to the keen Boston sport lovers. That this battle is for this very well known yearly Christmas charity effort, makes it even more attractive to sport followers.

The generosity of sport fans is well known. The double incentive of doing their bit for a worthy cause and being in at the finish of the Maloney-Sharkey feud, will jam old Mechanics Building to the rafters.

Both men have completed their training, been examined by physicians, and been passed by their corps of trainers as being fit for the battle of their lives. The men declare themselves fit and ready to go for all they are worth.

Sharkey has been working out with George Cook and Tom Kirby at Toland's Gym. Partisans say that his speed will blind the South Boston ring hero, Jim Maloney. Sparring partners state that Sharkey is hitting harder than he ever did before.

Sharkey Rarin' to Get in Ring

THE sailor boy has reached the point where he can't get in the ring with Maloney soon enough. Sharkey was rather sore over postponing the bout.

"If Maloney was sick the other day he will be sicker late Friday night," is the way Sharkey expressed himself yesterday as he completed his training.

There is an air of confidence throughout the Sharkey camp from Larkley down to the rubbers. Their man approaches the title peacefully and mentally fit. Sharkey has built up a belief in himself that he is Maloney's master. It looks like a tough night for South Boston Jimmie, says the Sharkey camp.

Kelley and Hayes, than whom there are no men better qualified as judges of a boxer's ability and condition, report Maloney ready and better than ever before.

Jimmie Amato White has been working out with him and knows that as a latter "Big Jim" is there. He bears the marks of many a hefty punch acquired in Maloney's training.

Dr. Klein, official doctor of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission has pronounced Maloney physically fit for the battle. Yesterday afternoon, while Maloney was training, the Commission doctor appeared on the scene, put Maloney through a rigid examination, at the request of the promoters of the show, and pronounced the South Boston heavyweight in perfect physical condition.

Expect Give and Take Battle

"I WILL take Sharkey by the knockout route," says Maloney. "I will not let the bout go the limit and I promise my followers to drop the sailor early in the fight. I will win decisively."

With both men feeling the way they do, science will probably be thrown to the wind and fans will see a give and take battle. It promises to be one of the most largely attended fights ever put on in this city. The Suffolk Club officers report a tremendous sale of tickets.

Matchmaker Tom Goodwin is still dickering to complete the semi-final bout.

He has booked an opening eight-rounder, with Charlie Donovan of Dorchester and Red Griffin of Chelsea competing. Andy Devodi of New York and Sam Luciel of Clinton, who meet in a preliminary, should provide action and hard hitting.

Coolidge and His Message to the Congress

If Congress sticks to the opening injunction of President Coolidge's message on the "state of the Union" danger in this session will be minimized. The President said:

"The age of perfection is still in the somewhat distant future, but it is more in danger of being retarded by mistaken Government activity than it is from lack of legislation."

The Republican party will have absolute power over legislation in this Congress. It has 247 votes in the House. The Democrats and Independents have only 188 combined. This minority could have forced debate on a bill under the late rule.

To do so under the rule the House has just adopted they must persuade thirty Republicans to join them. Preliminary surveys indicate that there are not that number of possible insurgents in the present Republican membership of the House.

That is the reason for the new rule. It enables the Republican majority to mother legislation in committees picked by party expediency and without public explanation. Party responsibility for legislation is quite proper. But the party that seeks to have power over legislation while cloaking its responsibility in secrecy makes a serious mistake.

It is to be hoped that the House's action will give impetus to the Senate's opposition to the proposed Dawes rule to limit debate. With a gag already applied in the House another gag in the Senate might make even President Coolidge helpless before the sinister reactionaries who have all too often shown their ability to do business with comfortably ennobled Republican majorities.

The President's message gives a faithful and inspiring account of his stewardship. He repeats the achievements of the administration in the financial field and recommends a continuance of its sound policies on raising and spending money.

But on two points at least we venture to disagree with Mr. Coolidge. He points to the power of America's independent example in helping to restore economic sanity and peace to Europe, as in the Dawes plan and the Locarno pacts. Then he himself proposes to ignore that most efficient way of treating with Europe and asks the Congress to tie this country up in the formal bonds of the World Court.

In the second place, we believe the President has been misled into a tranquil satisfaction with the present state of aviation. There will be a vigorous fight in both houses to bring out all the facts.

President Coolidge will be wise to listen to it carefully and learn that the people of this country do not want a "War" Department, or a Navy Department. They want a Department of National DEFENSE. In that department aviation should take its proper place on a par with the older methods of fighting.

The President makes an important new statement on the coal strike. He asks for power. Congress has never given it to him. It now wants to investigate and make public the facts of such industrial situations.

But if a Federal agency had such power no coal strike could last twenty-four hours. It only lasts now because mine owners can evade publicity, do as they please with a monopoly on which public health, comfort, even life depends.

The House is depriving itself of this same powerful weapon of publicity, for which President Coolidge is asking. Vice-President Dawes proposes to deprive the Senate of it, too. Here Congress would do well to follow the advice of Calvin Coolidge. Legislation should be no more cloaked in secrecy than should the working of a great basic industry.

Poor, Foolish Ghandi

The British Know How

Foolish Mr. Ghandi, the Hindu leader, who would like to put the British out of India, is again fasting "as a protest." He is so weak that he can hardly speak.

The British Viceroy of India, on the other hand, and all government of Great Britain are eating heartily, and a handful of Englishmen is still ruling 300,000,000 people in India.

In these days, power belongs to those that EAT well and HIT hard.

So far as we know, it was always so. Ghandi is the individual who thought he could help his fellow countrymen to throw off British rule by having them go back to the hand loom and make their own cloth by hand.

What India needs is a leader that will make BETTER looms than the British make, manufacture in India the iron and steel for plows and other things that India needs, put the cheap labor of India to work FOR THE BENEFIT OF INDIA, wipe out a few of the unnecessary gods and monstrous idols—and, above all, teach the people to think.

The story and the troubles of the people of India are told in the fact that in 9,000 years of Indian literature the word "liberty" nowhere appears.

Holding Your Breath

Test of Physical Fitness

The latest test of your physical fitness is your ability to hold your breath.

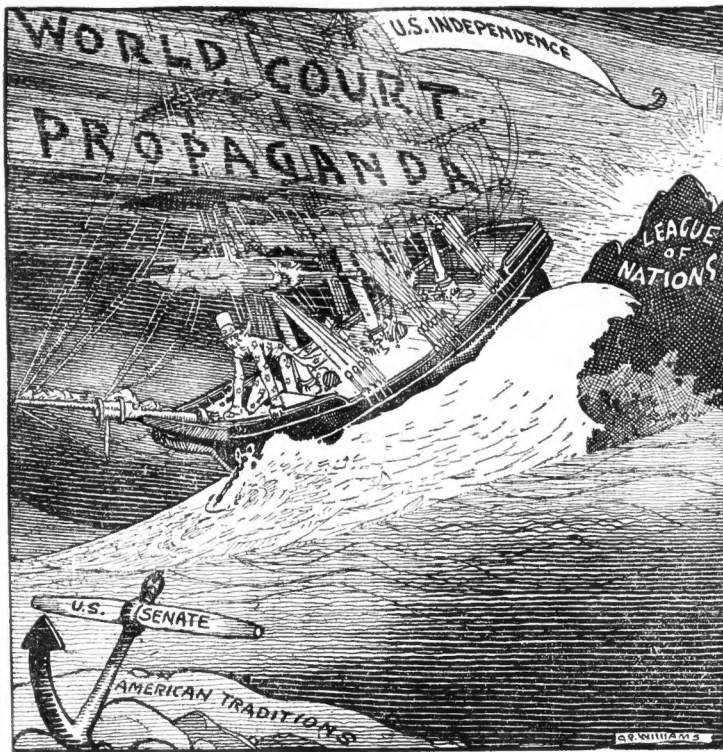

According to Dr. Wittich, of the University of Minnesota, it will in time be added to the methods of diagnosis along with taking the pulse and the temperature.

If professional men cannot inhale deeply and hold their breath for thirty seconds it is a sign of physical disorder, he says.

Whether it is an infallible test or not, if it is tried often enough to induce the invaluable habit of deep breathing, it promises not only to show, but to remedy many physical disorders.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Will the Anchor Hold?

THE Ship of State is on a lee shore. A hurricane of propaganda is whistling through her stout cordage. If she is blown upon the rocks depicted here she will no longer be the ship she is today.

Her timbers will be broken and her whole soul destroyed. She will become but junk out of which, perhaps, some other kind of ship might be built. But not the same.

One anchor is fast in the firm holding ground of American tradition.

One other thing may save her. America gave steam to ships. Sound, honest, effective American opinion furnished the steam that kept the ship off these rocks before. It can do it again.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

WHILE Christmas is over three weeks away, hundreds of department store Santa Clauses are beginning to take their winks out of store.

MOST of the union Kris Kringle's have already closed the molt tails out of their heads.

THESE fellows have easy jobs. All they have to do is stand around and make promises.

ONE guy said he had a big day yesterday. He claimed he made $12,420.00 worth of promises.

HE got in a fight with a seven-year-old kid who was checking up on last Christmas.

THE kid wanted to know why he was short two railroad trains and a bicycle.

HE also blamed the poor fellow for putting a wish rag and a bottle of ketchup off in his stocking.

PARENTS are foolish to fix to their children when they can get a professional Santa Claus to do it for them.

THEY make the promises and the department stores aren't so squeaky if they break them.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

SUPPOSE you had been assigned for an indefinite number of days, studying French, math, philosophy, the theory of color, the fundamentals of music, and, at the same time, taking lessons in tight-rope walking and sleight of hand for several hours a day.

Then suppose that one day, after five hours of this complicated and arduous work, while you were right at the task of some problem with every nerve tensed to solve it, a Great Hand grabbed you and shook you and an angry voice yelled in your ears, demanding to know why you didn't pay attention when you were spoken to?

Would you be shocked, bewildered and angered?

Patent Office

You certainly would. Yet that is exactly what you do to three-year-old child almost every day.

Gracie is living in a world as strange as the one described above with the equipment and control which you consider so superior to hers. Many times about Little Gracie's world in her article "The Forceful" printed in the October issue of the Survey.

On the educational side, a child performs the amazing feat of acquiring and perfecting a language by the time he is six, and lays the foundations of his ideas of the family, of sex, of money, of birth and death, and most of the other minor or less tangible problems of the human race.

On the physical side, he develops from a tiny germ to a human being whose brain has attained practically its adult weight.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

WHEN I think of fear and trembling, best women become dizzy with power, and seek to snatch by a leap from their

For in, woman may have seemed to rock the cradle and learned to run the floor, but seek to rule the world.

Nay, never shall woman tyrannize over man, even as he hath tyrannized over her. For, verily, she may have out of her hair and cast aside her corsets and her shackles, but still is she, at heart, a RIL!

Go to. Never will a woman leave her husband ALONE, evenings, while she goes out to her club and her belated meetings. For, she knows that when she returns, he will not be watching the clock or putting the water-wheels in his hair!

For it, in all these ways, wherein man hath tormented her, she doth endeavor to bully him, how then shall she "tyrannize" over him?

AIR MAIL SERVICE HAS GOOD RECORD

By Dr. FRANK CRANE

ABOUT seven years ago the air mail in the United States was inaugurated.

At present there are eighty-five planes being used and forty or fifty pilots flying and carrying some six hundred persons and sixty million pieces of mail.

The plane service was originally under the joint auspices of the War and Postoffice departments. Now it is under the exclusive management of the Postmaster-General, Mr. Harry S. New.

The regular service over the New York-San Francisco route began July 1, 1924, and since then there has been no serious interruption to the daily service.

Some time ago a flier who was apparently obeying instructions struck a mountain on his regular trip to Chicago and was killed.

This does not prove the failure of the service, but it shows that it is yet in its infancy.

The ordinary time required for the flight is thirty-four hours and forty-five minutes going west, and thirty-two hours and five minutes coming east.

The distance is 2,800 miles. The fastest express trains require more than four days for this trip, while the planes fly at one hundred miles an hour.

The route is well marked and there are beacon lights at every twenty-five miles with extra powerful ones every two hundred miles.

All flying is still dangerous, but the record of the air service is comparatively free from serious accidents.

It was five and a half months before the first pilot was killed.

At first only souvenir senders and similar persons used the air mail, but now it is used by business men, bank officers, and for movie flims.

It will not be long before the entire continent is linked by air lines and it is entirely possible that the air service will take the place of the present postal service.

Two-thirds of the air transport routes of Europe are operated by Germany. A lot of the large cities of Germany are linked by a regular air line.

The above summary of facts concerning airplanes is taken from Loose Leaf Current Topics.

THE REAL PERIL OF FRANCE

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

WHEN a great nation and a great race of people once foremost in splendid contributions to the science and art of the world, are perceived by all observers to be threatened with loss of their historic importance and influence in the world a deep sense of regret and sorrow must afflict their friends and admirers, and even send their enemies.

Such, I fear, is too nearly the condition of France today. The works of a friend are not the works of a foe for control. It is nothing of the financial troubles of France, but the fact that she is losing all who look and think, but such thoughts alone have never crushed a people.

Seems to Paralyze

The peril of France is by no means unrepresented by the French themselves, but instead of leastening them to instant effort it seems to paralyze them like the fabled snake of the serpent. In a sentence, the peril is simply that of depopulation by its inevitable economic, national and racial degeneration.

Having lost returned from some momentary stay in France—what a subject was frequently in my thoughts, and as it was before my eyes—I find my interest in the news of the reading of an article in the "Scientific Monthly" by Harold G. Villard.

Mr. Villard dwells upon a feature of the French crisis that has been too little considered, but which I am sure possesses fully as much importance as he attaches to it. This is the influence of unsanitary conditions upon the mortality rate.

In a recent article, written while I was in France, I quoted a few statistics of official origin, showing how the city of Paris suffers from the effects of unsanitary conditions, which, owing to administrative neglect or indifference, is everywhere a tragedy of our times. Here has been offered by a corresponding decline of the rate of mortality, this statement does not apply to France.

Real Cause

"France's real cause for worry," avers Mr. Villard, "is not her low birth rate but her very high death rate."
